Quality tissue products deserve quality protection

Ideal strength and performance

Our tissue packaging solutions are produced from a range of mono and coextruded polyethylene and polypropylene films. High-quality raw materials ensure optimum stiffness, strength, and sealing properties. We can now achieve this performance using thinner film than ever before – and still guarantee high capacity utilisation levels on the latest high-speed lines.

Customised according to your needs

We ensure that you get the solutions you need by working closely with you and the packaging machine and raw material suppliers. You can differentiate your products using soft touch effects, a combination of surface and background printing, and various stylish coatings. In addition to wrap film, we also supply tissue bags. With perforation, you can turn both wrap film and bags into easy-to-open packs.

Good looks promote sales

The excellent optical qualities of our packaging enhance your products and help them jump off the shelf. Thanks to flexographic printing in up to 10 colours, and the expertise of our in-house preprint department, you will be able to make the most of your artwork. Furthermore, special campaigns can be highlighted using our AmerPromo™ coding system.
